

Smith & Brewer 1897 - 1949

Smith & Brewer was established in London, England by Cecil Claude Brewer (1871-1918) and Arnold Dunbar Smith (1866-1933) in 1897. In 1895 the pair won a limited competition for the design of a new building for the settlement in Tavistock Place, Bloomsbury (built in 1896-97). Following the success of the project, the pair decided to form the partnership that lasted until Brewer's death in 1918. Smith continued the practice,. He designed several houses and additions to the Fitzwilliam Museum in Cambridge (1924-33). In 1930 he took Joseph Abraham Meikle (1876-1942) and Kenneth William Furneaux Harris (1902-1991) into partnerships. After Smith's death in 1933 Meikle, Harris and a new partner, Sidney Charles Clark (1894-1962) continued the practice under the original name, Smith & Brewer. The firm was dissolved with the death of Clark in 1949.

The University of Texas, Austin, has an extensive collection of drawings and plans by Smith & Brewer.
