

Webb, P. J.

P. J. Webb worked as an architect in Britain during the 1940s and 1950s. In the early 1950s Webb assisted architect Denis Arthur Birchett (1919-1991), head of the architectural section of Shell-Mex and BP, and in collaboration with Wallis Gilbert & Partners, designed a modular service station for the Oxford Road in Reading, England, which was the forerunner of similar petrol stations in Britain. By 1955 Webb had been elected an Associate of the Royal Institute of British Architects (ARIBA)
