

Douglas, John 1830 - 1911

John Douglas [also known as "John Douglas of Chester"] was born in Sandiway, Cheshire, England on 11 April 1830 and was articled to Edward Graham Paley (1823-1895) of Sharpe & Paley in Leicester in the 1840s.

He commenced independent practice as an architect in c.1860 in Chester, Cheshire and worked on his own until 1884 when he formed a partnership with Daniel Porter Fordham (1845?-1899) in the Chester-based architectural practice Douglas & Fordham. They were in partnership until 1897 when Fordham retired from the practice for health reasons. After working alone again, Douglas formed a partnership with Charles Howard Minshull (1858-1934) as Douglas & Minshull in Chester.

Failing health forced Douglas to retire in 1909 and Minshull took over the practice. In c.1911 he took on a new partner, Joseph Edward Muspratt (1857-1928). The firm subsequently continued as Douglas, Minshull & Muspratt. It retained this title until at least the mid-1920s.

Douglas died in Dee Banks, Chester, England on 23 May 1911.
