

Ridler, William Henry 1852 - 1910

William Henry Ridler was born Bristol, Gloucestershire, England in April in 1864 and was active as an architect in England in the late nineteenth century. He was a partner, with Edward Charles Homer (1844-1915) in the London-based architectural firm Homer & Ridler. They designed the Grand Hotel in Frinton, Essex in 1896. Following the dissolution of the partnership in 1897, Ridler retired. He died in Gloucestershire in April 1910

Worked in

UK