

Schultz, Robert Weir 1860 - 1951

Robert Weir Schultz [also known as Robert Schultz Weir] was born in Port Glasgow, Scotland on 26 July 1860. and was articled to Robert Rowand Anderson (1834-1921) in Edinburgh from c.1876 to 1881. From 1881 to 1884 he worked an apprentice with Anderson and George Washington Browne (1853-1939) in the practice Anderson & Browne which became Wardrop, Anderson & Browne in 1883 when Hew Maitland Wardrop (1856-1887) joined the partnership. In 1884 Schultz moved to London to work as an assistant in the office of Richard Norman Shaw (1831-1912) from 1884 to 1886; and with Ernest George (1839-1922) and Harold Ainsworth Peto (1854-1933) from 1886 to 1888. During these years he also attended the Royal Academy Schools in London and in 1887 won the RA Gold Medal and Travelling Studentship enabling him to make a study tour of Italy and Greece together with Sidney Barnsley (1865-1926). They returned to London in November 1890 and in 1891 November 1890 and in 1891 established an office in 1891 at 14 Gray's Inn Square.

Because of anti-German sentiments at the beginning of World War One, in 1914 he changed his name to Robert Schultz Weir and thereafter was commonly known as Robert S. Weir. With the outbreak of World War Two in 1939, he closed his office. Schultz's major work as an architect is considered to have been Khartoum Cathedral (1906-1913).

Schultz exhibited at the Royal Academy in London and at the Royal Scottish Academy in Edinburgh. He also participated in the 5th (1896), 6th (1899), 7th (1903), 8th (1906), and 9th (1910) exhibitions of the Arts & Crafts Exhibition Society in London.

Schultz was elected a member of the Art Workers Guild in 1891 and was Master of the Art Workers Guild in 1920. He was also a member of the Arts & Crafts Exhibition Society.

His address was given as 14 Gray's Inn Square, London in 1905 and 1926. He died at his home, The Barn at Phoenix Green, Hartley Wintney, Hampshire on 29 April 1951.

A biographical file on Robert Weir Schultz is available on request from the Enquiry Desk, Royal Institute of British Architects Library, London.
