

Anderson, Kininmonth & Paul 1946 - 1976

Rowand Anderson Kininmonth & Paul had its origins in Rowand Anderson & Paul, an architectural partnership formed in Edinburgh, Scotland in 1903 by Robert Rowand Anderson (1834-1921) and Arthur Forman Balfour Paul (1875-1938). The firm became Rowand Anderson, Paul & Partners when William Kininmonth (1904-1988) and Basil Spence (1907-1976) were made partners in the practice. Following the death of Paul in 1938, Kininmonth and Spence were sole partners in the practice. In 1946 Spence withdrew from the practice to set up his own architecture and design office, Basil Spence & Partners. The firm then became Rowand Anderson Kininmonth & Paul.

Rowand Anderson Kininmonth & Paul closed in 1976.

Worked in

UK

Works

Architectural projects by Rowand Anderson Kininmonth & Paul included the University of Edinburgh, King's Buildings Development (1955-1970), University of Edinburgh: post graduate school of medicine (Pfizer Foundation) (1960), the Scottish Provident Building in Edinburgh (1961), University of Edinburgh: Pollock Halls of Residence (1962-1972), the redevelopment of the town centre of Linlithgow in West Lothian (1967) and University of Edinburgh: proposed dental hospital (1967-1976).

For a detailed list of projects by Rowand Anderson Kininmonth & Paul see the Dictionary of Scottish Architects 1660-1980

Bibliography

Powers, Alan. Modern. The Modern Movement in Britain. London: Merrell, 2005

Links

- Dictionary of Scottish Architects 1660-1980

http://www.scottisharchitects.org.uk/architect_full.php?id=200101