

Richardson, W. R.

W. R. Richardson was active as an architect in London, England in the early years of the twentieth century. Drawings and plans of a house designed by him are illustrated in Designs for One Hundred Ideal £1,000 Houses. Being copies of the hundred best designs entered in the 1912 Daily Mail Architects' Competition (1912 p.87). His address was given as 8, Old Burlington Street, London.

Note: Apart from their address, no further information has been traced on this architect.

Worked in
UK