

Lutyens, Edwin Landseer 1869 - 1944

Edwin Landseer Lutyens was born in London, England, on 29 March 1869 and studied architecture at the National Art Training School in South Kensington, London from 1885 to 1887. He left without finishing the course to become an articled pupil in the office of the architects Ernest George (1839-1922) and Harold Ainsworth Peto (1854-1933) in London. He remained with them for a year before leaving to set up his own practice near Farnham in Surrey in 1889 at the age of nineteen. He subsequently remained in independent private practice for the rest of his career as an architect.

Lutyens first exhibited at the Royal Academy in London in 1890 and 1891, and from 1908 to 1944 exhibited virtually every year at the gallery. He also exhibited at the Walker Art Gallery in Liverpool; Royal Glasgow Institute; and at the Royal Scottish Academy in Edinburgh. In 1893 a hall lantern he designed was exhibited at the 4th exhibition of the Arts & Crafts Exhibition Society in London in 1893.

Lutyens was an early supporter of women's suffrage and was one of signatories to the Men's League for Women's Suffrage's A Declaration of Representative Men in Favour of Women's Suffrage in 1909. A number of women architects, including Elisabeth Benjamin (1908-1999) and Charlotte Clare Nauheim (1896-1959), received their initial training in his office.

His awards and honours were numerous. He was elected a Fellow of the Royal Institute of British Architects (FRIBA) in 1906. He received the RIBA Royal Gold Medal in 1921 and the American Institute of Architects Gold Medal in 1924. He was knighted in 1918, and was awarded the Order of Merit in 1942. He was elected an Associate of the Royal Academy (ARA) in 1913, full Academician (RA) in 1920, and was President of the Royal Academy (PRA) from 1938 to 1944. In 1932 the French Government made him an officer of the Légion d'honneur. He died at his home in London on 1 January 1944.
