

Skipper, George John 1856 - 1948

George John Skipper [also known as G.J. Skipper] was born in East Dereham, Norfolk, England, on 6 August 1856. His brother, Frederick Wilemer Skipper, his uncle, Eric Haywood Skipper, and his son, Edward Goodwin Skipper, were all architects. G.J. Skipper studied at Norwich School of Art in Norwich, Norfolk, in 1872 and between 1873-76 was articled to John Thomas Lee (c.1845-1920). He then worked in a builder's and contractors office until 1879 [or 1881 - sources differ] when he set up his own independent practice in East Dareham.

In 1880 Skipper relocated to Norwich, where for many years he was to become a leading proponent of the Arts and Crafts and later neo-Baroque styles of architecture. From 1889-1912 he was in partnership with F.W. Skipper.

He was elected a Fellow of the Royal Institute of British Architects (FRIBA) in 1889. He was also a Member of the Town Planning Institute (MTPI) and onetime Vice-President of the Norfolk & Norwich Architectural Association. In addition to his work as an architect, Skipper was also a painter and exhibited at the Royal Academy in London between 1906-32. He died in Norwich on 1 August 1948.
