

Gotch, John Alfred 1852 - 1942

John Alfred Gotch was born in Kettering, Northamptonshire, England on 28 September 1852. After studying at Zurich University, he was articled to Robert Winter Johnson (1833-1884) in Melton Mowbray, Leicestershire and Kettering, Northamptonshire from 1871 to 1874. He also attended King's College, London and at the Architectural Association Schools in London. He worked in the office of James Taylor (1833?-1909) for four years. He also briefly worked in the office of Joseph Gales (1830-1906).

Gotch commenced practice as an architect in Kettering and London in 1879. Whilst training with Johnson, Gotch had become acquainted with Charles Saunders (1857-1944) and in c.1887 he joined Gotch in partnership. In 1899 Henry Ralph Surridge (1885-1954) joined the firm as an office junior and was made a Partner in 1930. At this point the practice adopted the name Gotch, Saunders and Surridge (GSS). Gotch and Saunders subsequently retired on 31 December 1937.

Gotch was elected a Fellow of the Royal Institute of British Architects (FRIBA) in 1886 and a Fellow of the Society of Architects (FSA). He was President of the Architectural Association in 1886-1887; Vice-President of the Royal Institute of British Architects (VPRIBA) in 1914-1919; President of the Royal Institute of British Architects (PRIBA) from 1923 to 1925; and President of the Northamptonshire Association of Architects in 1911-1922.

In addition to his work as an architect, Gotch organised art classes in Kettering and became an authority on early Renaissance architecture. He was the author of several books including The Buildings of Sir Thomas Treeham (1883); Architecture of the Renaissance In England (1894); Early Renaissance Architecture in England (1901) The Growth of the English House (1909); The Original Drawings for the Palace at Whitehall, attributed to Inigo Jones (1912); Domestic Architecture of the Georgian Period (1917); The English Home from Charles I. to George IV (1918); Inigo Jones (1928); and The Old Halls & Manor-Houses of Northamptonshire. An Illustrated Review (1936).

Gotch died in Kettering on 17 January 1942 Gotch's brother was the painter and illustrator Thomas Cooper Gotch (1854-1931).
