

Plumbe, Rowland 1838 - 1919

Rowland Plumbe was born in Whitechapel, London on 2 February 1838. He studied at University College, London after which he was articled to Nockalls Johnson Cottingham (1823-1954) and Frederick Peck (1827?-1875). He then worked in the office of Frederick Clarke Withers (1828-1901) in New York City from 1858 to 1860.

Following his return to England in 1860, he established his own architectural practice in the City of London. He was District Surveyor of South Islington from 1875, and West Hampstead until 1891.

He was in partnership with Frank Morrish Harvey (1846-1932) as Rowland Plumbe & Harvey from 1903 to 1908; and with Charles Lionel Fleming-Williams (1879-1919); and with John Charles Stephen Mummery (1862-1949) as Rowland Plumbe & Partners from 1913 to 1919.

Plumbe specialised in the design of churches particularly in the Gothic Revival style. He also designed hospitals, country houses and large residential schemes for artisans.

Plumbe died on 2 April 1919. His address at the time of his death was Ashleigh, 29 Brondesbury Park, Willesden, Middlesex, and 34 Bloomsbury Square, Middlesex
