

Blomfield, Arthur Conran 1863 - 1935

Arthur Conran Blomfield was born in Richmond, Surrey on 15 December 1863. Architecture was very much the family profession - his father, Arthur William Blomfield (1829-1899), his brother, Charles James Blomfield (1862-1932) and his cousin, Sir Reginald Theodore Blomfield (1856-1942), were all architects. After attending Trinity College, Cambridge, and the Royal Academy Schools in London, A.C. Blomfield was articled to his father in his London office from 1884 to 1887. He then worked as an assistant to Sir Ernest George (1839-1922) and Harold Ainsworth Peto (1854-1933).

He set up an independent practice at 6 Montague Place, Baker Street, London, in 1889. In 1890, with his father and brother, he formed the London-based architectural firm Arthur Blomfield & Sons [also known as Sir A.W. Blomfield & Sons]. From c.1930 he was in partnership with Arthur James Driver (1871-1940) as Blomfield & Driver.

A.C. Blomfield specialised in designing banks. In addition to designing Barclay's Bank at Pall Mall East, London, he designed banks elsewhere in London and in Luton, Ipswich, Twickenham, Windsor, Woking, Teddington, Bushey, Lothbury, etc. He also designed churches in Acton, Ealing, Southall, Forest Row, and elsewhere, and buildings at Oundle School in Northamptonshire. He was architect to the Bank of England from 1900 onwards and architect to King Edward VIII at Sandringham.

Photographs of a corner of the courtyard, the front terrace, the dining room and the entrance hall of 'Hollington House, Newbury, designed by A.C. Blomfield are featured in 'The Studio Yearbook of Decorative Art' 1907 (pp.14, 15, 50, 51).

He was elected a Fellow of the Royal Society of British Architects (FRIBA) in 1901. A.C. Blomfield died in London on 22 November 1935.
