

Smith, Thomas George

Thomas George Smith was active as an architect in Dublin, Ireland between 1919 and at least the early 1930s. In 1919 Smith, and fellow Dublin architect Ralph Henry Byrne (1878-1946), were commended for a design entered in the Daily Mail Ideal Workers Homes Competition. It is unclear whether Byrne & Smith formed a formal partnership.

Smith was elected a member of the Royal Institute of Architects in Ireland (RIAI) in 1920.

Worked in

Ireland

Links

- Dictionary of Irish Architects 1720-1940

<https://www.dia.ie/architects/view/5048/Smith-thomasGeorge>